With just 7dBa of self noise, the RØDE NT2-A is a microphone of exacting quality.

At its heart is the Australian designed and manufactured RØDE HF1 dual diaphragm capsule. The frequency and transient response of this transducer has been voiced to complement today's modern recording techniques, but still evoke the silky smooth character of the legendary microphones of the 50's and 60's.

With a range of configurations, the NT2-A provides versatile recording in a range of studio situations, from vocals to guitar amplifiers, cello to percussion, and everything in between.

Included is the RØDE SM6 shockmount, which provides a secure mount for the NT2-A, and a detachable pop shield for minimising plosives. A premium 6m/20' XLR microphone cable and microphone dust cover complete the NT2-A Studio Solution package.

As a bonus, Grammy™ nominated producer and engineer John Merchant (Recorded the Bee Gees, Celine Dion, Barbra Streisand, Mika and many others) presents a comprehensive guide to studio recording with the NT2-A.
